

It's About Jobs...

America's 2,302 Worldwide Companies Support the Jobs of More Than 71 Million U.S. Workers

From coast to coast, worldwide American companies support substantial employment – helping sustain and support 71 million U.S. workers and their families. These companies directly increase economic output in the United States through their production of goods and services, through support for thousands of suppliers, and through consumer spending generated by the people they employ.

Click on the map below or visit <http://pace4jobs.org/resources/map.php> to learn how worldwide American companies in your state contribute to its economy.

If Congress raises international taxes on these companies, it will put U.S. employers and employees at a competitive disadvantage with their foreign competitors and jeopardize the substantial contributions they make to the U.S economy.
