How Do Globally Engaged U.S. Companies Contribute to Job Creation in Florida?

*Jobs Supported by Globally Engaged U.S. Companies
Percent of Total, By Sector*

Globally engaged U.S. companies directly provided 1.3 million jobs in Florida in 2011, including 664,900 jobs in the services sector, 429,000 jobs in the trade and transportation sector and 202,600 jobs in the manufacturing sector. These companies also indirectly support employment throughout local communities by purchasing goods and services from other local businesses in Florida. In fact, such purchases supported an additional 1.0 million jobs throughout the state in 2011, including 200,700 jobs in professional and scientific services and 183,300 jobs in administrative services. Finally, these globally engaged U.S. companies, as well as their suppliers, provide their workers with a source of income, which increased consumption spending and supported an additional 1.5 million jobs in 2011, including 318,000 jobs in health care and social assistance and 238,000 jobs in retail trade.

In addition to providing their workers with a source of income in the form of wages and salaries, globally engaged U.S. companies provided $10.5 billion in dividend payments to Florida residents in 2011. These payments serve as another source of income to local residents, thereby providing an additional boost to the state’s economy through the induced economic activity associated with increased consumer spending. In fact, these dividend payments supported an additional 66,100 jobs throughout Florida in 2011.

In all, globally engaged U.S. companies directly and indirectly supported 3.9 million jobs throughout Florida in 2011 — accounting for 45% of Florida’s private-sector employment.

How Can We Sustain and Expand the Contributions of Globally Engaged U.S. Companies?

U.S. companies operate in a highly competitive global marketplace. As cross-border trade and investment have increased, the field of competition has widened in many industries. In this environment, differences in national tax systems can be a significant factor in where companies choose to invest.

Unfortunately, the current U.S. corporate tax system has become an outlier relative to the tax systems of our trading partners. The United States maintains the highest statutory corporate tax rate among OECD countries. In addition, the United States still uses an antiquated system of worldwide taxation, which imposes a second round of taxes on foreign earnings for U.S. companies.

Reforming the U.S. corporate tax system by reducing corporate tax rates and revising international tax rules would make the United States a more attractive location for companies to invest and base their global headquarters, while also encouraging them to return their foreign earnings for investment throughout the United States, including Florida. Ultimately, a more competitive U.S. corporate tax system is critical to sustaining and expanding the contributions that globally engaged U.S. companies make to Florida’s economy, local communities, and working families.
